BABLE comes as an open platform that is free to use for everyone

How can I use BABLE?

Starting from August 2017 companies and cities can create own profiles on BABLE and start uploading information on their projects, services, challenges and solutions.

BABLE provides several functions and services that help promote own projects and initiatives and engage with the community on Smart City business:

- individual curation of solutions
- Smart City Store
- innovation Procurement and technical dialogues
- tender screening and proactive bidding
- aggregation of demand
- framework contracts for suppliers
- news feed and direct communication with all market actors

Most of the BABLE functions are currently being developed. They will come as plugins to the platform starting in fall 2017.

BABLE comes as an open platform that is free to use for everyone

What does it cost?

BABLE comes as an open platform that is free to use for everyone.

- free and open:
  overview over Smart City Solutions, Products and Use Cases
- free with login:
  access personal profiles and connect with companies and cities

What is BABLE's business model?

Promotion of commercial products and services is attached to a fee and using services on the platform (like special procurement functions or individual curation of solutions) will also come with a charge.

Also special features and services on BABLE will be available if you sign up as a premium partner. This can be based on an annual membership fee or come as pay per use.
